Vol. 27 No. 11 DEC 2021/JAN 2022

IN THIS, the last printed issue of Kai Tiaki, we look back at the journal's illustrious history, and hear from four former co-editors. Two nurse practitioners explain why they want to be involved in the end-of-life choice process. Nursing students farewell a beloved kui, and we put the spotlight on gout, a debilitating chronic condition which disproportionately affects Māori and Pacific people.

Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand is the official journal of the New Zealand Nurses' Organisation, Tōpūtanga Tapuhi Kaitiaki o Aotearoa. Views expressed are not necessarily those of NZNO. Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand, under a variety of titles, has been published continuously since 1908.

Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand is a peer-reviewed journal. All clinical practice articles are independently reviewed by expert nurses/researchers (see below). It is indexed in the Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature and International Nursing Index.

Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand retains copyright for material published in the journal. Authors wanting to re-publish material elsewhere are free to do so, provided prior permission is sought, the material is used in context and Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand is acknowledged as the first publisher.

Kai Tiaki is the Māori term for carer or guardian and has always been incorporated in the title of the magazine.

Co-editors:

Mary Longmore and Joel Maxwell.

Practice article review process:

Clinical practice, education and research articles are critiqued for publication in Kai Tiaki Nursing New Zealand by nurses/educators/researchers with expertise in the subject area of the article, and by the co-editors.
